Soldiers' Show Fresh, Vital, Opens Sunday

Paintings, sculpture, string work, photographs, model airplanes, are pouring in for the soldiers' art show which opens Sunday in the Court of the Golden Bough at Ocean and Monte Verde.

An exciting new development in the exhibition is the offer by Art and National Defense, Inc., of six prizes—artists' kits—for the best work shown.

Among the exhibits will be the original Zip Your Lip posters, made at Fort Ord, which have now spread the campaign all over the country.

And as a special display in itself there will be a large collection of the photographs taken by Carlyle Lewis of Carmel, Army technical sergeant, just before his death in an airplane crash six weeks ago, pictures of South America and also many older ones of Carmel and the Peninsula.

Three of the Lewis photographs were sold this week before Carol Steinbeck could get them hung up.

Two pieces of sculpture are of particular interest since they are horses, carved by a Fort Ord cavalryman in Carmel stone.

Art work has come in from Ord, Camp Roberts, the Salinas Army Air Base, the Presidio of Monterey, the Monterey Naval Base, and the Fort Ord hospitals.

The show will be hung all over the Court of the Golden Bough and also in the adjoining gallery.

Late entries are being accepted up until Sunday noon at the USO, the Red Cross and at Service Club No. 1 at Fort Ord.

Wheelers Attend Win War Conference

Wheeler of Pebble Beach heard the peace plans of such world figures as Pierre Cot, air minister of the French republic; Colonel M. T. Tchou, former secretary to Chiang Kai-Shek; Clark Eichelberger, director of the League of Nations Association; Chester Rowell and representatives of Canada and Australia.

Mima Williamson Dies

The other day Mima Williamson, music teacher at both Carmel High School and Sunset, dropped into town long enough to tell friends that she was married to William M. Lynch of Sutter City on May 30 in Carson City.

The couple will live on a ranch near Sutter City.

The bride, who came to Carmel last fall, is the daughter of Mr. Gilbert D. Williamson of Yuba City. She is a graduate of the College of the Pacific.

Paul Lows at Robles

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Low have taken a cottage at Robles del Rio where they will be for another ten days.

Week-ends they have been enjoying occasional visits from their two sons, Kirby, who is at Camp Roberts and Peter, who is at Stanford.

Pine Needles

Joan Clague Now Mrs. Young

The musically talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Clague of Carmel, Joan Margaret, became the bride of Sergeant Robert J. Young in a simple wedding ceremony at the First Baptist church, Salinas, last Friday evening.

The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. William McCormick.

The new Mrs. Young plans to continue her post-graduate work at San Jose State College this summer and teach in the Modesto schools next fall. She was graduated from the University of California last year and served as practice teacher in the Carmel schools.

Here for the week-end are the J. W. Claywells, son and daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. (Bill) Claywell Jr. of Salinas, and their young son, John III. Visiting with Mrs. Carrie Main is her granddaughter, Miss Evelyn Main of Los Angeles who is the sister of Mrs. Claywell Jr.

Breach of Manners

Mr. and Mrs. Clemence Wygant III, formerly of Washington, D. C., are spending a two weeks' vacation in Carmel. They have recently acquired a home site on Portola Road in Carmel Woods.

Mr. Wygant reports that on his first day in town he was pursued for three blocks by a barking dog. Losing patience, he turned and informed the dog that he was going to report this inhospitable treatment to Jessie Joan Brown who conducts the Pine Cone-Cymbal Dog Column so that the dog would be ostracized from canine society.

The dog stole away in silent consternation.

John Magee Dies

At his Pebble Beach home Wednesday, John Magee, nationally known industrialist and world traveler, died at the age of 74. He had been in ill-health for two years.

Jean Aiken Resigns

Popular Jean Aiken Toombs has presented her resignation as secretary at Carmel High School and equally charming Helen Collins will succeed her.

Mrs. Toombs' resignation is dated for August 7 when she will move to 423 Church street, Salinas.

Mrs. Collins is a graduate of the University of Montana where she distinguished herself in literature and dramatics and won a scholarship to Breadloaf College, Vt. Her husband, John, is stationed at the Presidio of Monterey, and they are living on Torres near Third.

Col. Snow Visits Blanchards

Colonel C. E. Snow of Washington, D. C., was the house guest recently of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Blanchard of Carmel.

Miss Marj Jepp and Miss Theresa Blasingame of A. W. V. S. will go down to Big Sur shortly to present a skit on fire fighting.

League Planning Political Rally Early In August

A political rally at which candidates of all parties will be invited to speak—such a rally as has been advocated editorially by The Pine Cone-Cymbal—will be held in August by the Monterey Peninsula League of Women Voters.

The meeting was decided upon Tuesday at a meeting of League directors at the Carmel Woods home of Mrs. Helen Clark Cranstons, vice president.

At this rally local citizens will have an opportunity to hear the ideas of the candidates seeking office in this district at the August 25 primaries.

The League of Women Voters, whose purpose is the furtherance of better government, has staged similar non-partisan political rallies before elections in the past.

Tuesday the directors also commended the Carmel Library, an official War Information Center, for its excellent collection and arrangement of war preparation and Civilian Defense publications.

Adult Dances; Cycle Trips on Play Schedule

On Wednesday, July 22, the Carmel Recreation Committee is providing an opportunity for the adults to get out and enjoy some of the old time dances. This dance will be held at the Sunset Cafeteria and will be directed by Miss Gilmert, Mrs. Timmins, and Mrs. Dormody. The admission is 25c per person. Although the old time type dances will prevail there will be rumba and conga.

Adult bicycling will be included in the recreation program for the duration of the summer. Cycling trips will be conducted each Monday under the leadership of Miss Gilmert. In order that there be no interference with daytime activities these trips will start at 6:30 in the evening.

There has been some hot basketball competition on Monday evenings at the high school gymnasium. College and high school boys from out of town have been giving the local boys an opportunity to acquire some new basketball techniques. A practice period is conducted from 7 to 7:30 and organized games are played until 8:45.

Bing Crosby Delights USO

Sunday evening Bing Crosby, with his wife, Dixie Lee, and his pipe, dropped into the Carmel USO and from the ping-pong table sang to the several hundred soldiers who happened to be around for an hour.

He sang an all request program, songs like Deep in the Heart of Texas and Jingle Jangle Jingle, and for one of them Johnny Elizalde accompanied him. He pronounced Johnny's performance excellent and also the original composition, More Than You'll Ever Know, which he played for him.

The Bach portrait cover was especially designed for this issue by John Cunningham, director of the Carmel Art Institute.

PROCLAMATION

In the name of the Carmel Business Association I hereby proclaim this Friday as American Heroes Day.

All merchants are requested to co-operate in urging their customers to buy Bonds and Stamps to make this drive a step toward victory.

HAROLD NIELSEN,

Budget Accepted Tax Rate Fixed By City Council

At a meeting of the city council Wednesday night the tax rate for 1943 was set at $1.32 per hundred, the same as for the preceding year. $1.00 is allocated to the general fund, nineteen cents to the library, seven cents for the sea wall, three cents to pay interest and retire the Fire Apparatus Bonds of 1930 and three cents for the Fire House Bonds of 1936.

Other business of the meeting was granting of the request of the Sanitary District for the use of the fire house as a voting place for its election to be held on September 14.

Wives May Not Share Free Mail Privilege

Army brides should not try to send their wedding announcements under the Army free-mail privileges, says Postmaster Ernie Bixler.

"Such free-mail privilege is applicable only to personal letter mail in its usual and generally accepted form, including messages on post cards, sent by the members of our armed forces. This provision is primarily for the purpose of making it easier for our men in the service to keep in touch with their families and friends. It does not apply to correspondence from their wives or other relatives, nor to any matter sent to members of the military or naval forces by persons who are not members of such forces."

W. L. COOKES TO LEAVE

An auction of 10,000 plants will be held tomorrow and Sunday by the Del Monte Park nursery at Third and Santa Fe.

W. L. Cooke, the manager, is disposing of all his plants because he is moving to a similar business in Palm Springs.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Lyman Peterson of Carmel became the parents of a girl July 9 at the Monterey hospital.

Mrs. Murray Studley of El Centro and her children, Niel, 3, and Sheryl Laraine, 9 months, came to Carmel Saturday to visit with the Harold Nielsens. Mrs. Studley is Mrs. Nielsen's sister.

Miss Betty Jean Peck of Los Angeles, niece of Mrs. Vera Peck Millis, has arrived for her annual summer visit with the Millises, which always includes the Bach Festival.

Julius Caesar In Rehearsal Now at Forest Theatre

The annual Carmel Shakespeare Festival will this year consist of streamlined performances of Julius Caesar and Twelfth Night. Both plays will be given in the famous Forest Theater, as usual; but as an innovation this year the performances will be at twilight, commencing at seven o'clock and ending at eight thirty.

The subtle political tragedy of Julius Caesar is exceedingly appropriate to this period of upheaval. A starkly simple but noble setting has been planned for the production and properties and costumes will be in harmony with the clear strength of the scene.

Noel Sullivan will play Brutus; Warren Keith Thomas, Cassius; Herbert Heron, Marc Anthony; W. B. Williams, Caesar; Milton Stitt, Casca; Robert Anderson, Decius; and the other roles will be taken by Cecil Smith, Lillian Locke, F. O. Robbins, Malcolm Gardiner, Marie Fonteneau, Alec Gibson, Wilma Bott, Maryan Finlay, Gloria Rollin, Edith Frisbie, Eric Short and Barbara Stitt who plays Portia.

Herbert Heron is directing the rehearsals, which commencing Monday will be held in the Forest Theater at irregular times so as not to conflict with the rehearsals or concerts of the Bach Festival, after which regular day and night rehearsals will be resumed.

The technical work of the production is in the capable hands of many local experts, particularly H. F. Dickinson, Fred Locke, Ann Millis, George Seidenack, Helena Heron, Iva Rogers, and Ellen Habenicht.

Julius Caesar will be presented on the evenings of Friday, Saturday, Sunday, August 7, 8, 9, and will be followed by Twelfth Night on August 21, 22, 23.

Reservations may be made now at The Sketch Box, in the main court of the Seven Arts. Season tickets are 25 per cent less than the combined single ticket price.

MRS. TARPEY PASSES

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at Del Monte chapel for Mrs. Margaret Hope Vickers Tarpey, 56, who died here Saturday.

Mrs. Tarpey, who has been ill for several months, had lived in Carmel for a year.

She is survived by her husband, Arthur B. Tarpey, a daughter, Mrs. George T. Brady Jr. of San Francisco, and two sons, Arthur B. Tarpey of Los Angeles and Malcolm F. Tarpey of Carmel.

Art Institute Exhibit Shows Intimate Charm

By MARGARET VALIANT

An unpretentious invitation announced the third student exhibit of the Carmel Art Institute at the Sketch Box on July 11.

The exhibit, like the invitation, offered quality rather than quantity and had the intimate charm of a nose-gay rather than the splashy brilliance of a huge floral offering. This sense of the intimate is doubly needed and appreciated now when the bigness of collective human effort around us appalls and dismays.

Only twenty or so canvases were shown—no more than could be carefully seen during one visit; enough to reveal the facets of each artist's personality and enough to indicate that the directors of the Institute possess the rare ability to bring out and develop the individual imagination of each student rather than force them into the plaster mold of a "school."

Another characteristic of this exhibit is that each canvas has the quality of a work of art. To return to my own field, there are many tunes which can be called songs; there are not many songs which can be called works of art. This is equally true of short stories or of painting; in each medium a work of art may be said to have been achieved when one has found a happy harmony of spatial elements, basic design and emotional atmosphere.

Of all the exhibitors Marjorie Doolittle's calm, reserved quality most indicated the artist arrived. Her restrained handling of subject and composition in the Head of a Girl is in the best tradition of portrait painting.

Rama Stearn's portrait of the same title is distinguished by its monumental quality which reveals a real understanding of designed space.

Betty Reynolds also came off well with a striking study of a girl with a bowl of fruit. Miss Reynolds' work has a "paint" quality; this portrait would hold it own in any big-time show.

This reviewer her own personal "Oscar" to the only masculine exhibition chosen, Mr. George Davidson of Pebble Beach.

Although there were several effective canvases of Carmel's lovely Mission, none had the evocative quality of Mr. Davidson's.

Looking at his canvas, one could imagine that the little nuns, who dotted the foreground, were really arriving in the fresh dawn of the Mission's first day.

Mr. Davidson's other exhibit was a portrait of a young soldier entitled: "Private Smith."

If this represents Mr. Davidson's first excursion into the field of portraiture, we would urge him to sally forth often and to use the some non-rose-colored glasses. For our portraitists, and our observers, too often require that subject and treatment be "pretty". Mr. Davidson has not sought either and his portrait has attained, instead all the swift impact of an American K. O. punch.

An appreciation of this well-chosen, well-hung exhibit must include mention of the single canvas of Marie Elizalde, a cool fantasia which gave just that fillip to the whole as an unexpected spice gives to a well-balanced dish.

Organ Recital Sunday At All Saints' Church

The third of a series of Sunday afternoon organ recitals will be given this Sunday afternoon, July 19, at 4 p. m. at All Saints Church.

The program includes the following selections:

Little Prelude and Fugue in D Minor—J. S. Bach
Arioso—J. S. Bach
In the Forest—Harris.
Children's Prayer, from Hansel and Gretel—Humperdinck
Alice Lee Keith will be at the console of the organ.

There is no charge and the Rev. C. J. Hulsewe invites all to come and enjoy this musical half hour as part of what Carmel has to offer in varieties of beauty.

Opens in Carmel Photo Supply Shop

Local artists, who have complained in the past about the difficulties of finding picture frames, will now be able to choose from a collection.

Henry M. Seron, who has just opened a photography studio at Ocean and Lincoln in the Pine Inn building, has all kinds of picture frames as well as everything a photographer is likely to need.

Though he sells frames and equipment, Seron's specialty is taking pictures, all kinds, weddings, children, pets, scenery, everything. He takes them indoors and outdoors, any place he is requested.

Assisting him is his wife, Astrid. They formerly conducted photography studios in Gilroy and Bakersfield.

Carol Ann Smith A Real Artist

By DORA HAGEMEYER

A little girl in blue gingham, with a winning smile and braided hair, sat at the piano in her home on Sunday afternoon and played with such fire and vitality that her audience was amazed and delighted.

Carol Ann Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd T. Smith of Carmel, is nine years old and the pupil of Emma Evans. Her parents give all the credit for her remarkable progress to her teacher; her teacher says that she has an unusually talented pupil, but whatever the reason, the result speaks for itself. Carol Ann is not merely a gifted child, she is a real little artist. She plays with true feeling for the distinctive quality of each composition she performs. The two little Grieg numbers, "Elfentanz" and "Volksweise" were played with such a charming elfin grace that one would have thought the little girl at the piano knew more about the elves than she admitted. "The Clock Over There" by Ganz was also delightfully performed and the "Frollicky, Rollicky Wind," which was her last encore, was played with sheer delight for its gay spriteliness.

But Carol Ann's program was varied. It included a Bach prelude, played cleanly and crisply; Beethoven Minuet in G, and a Kuhlou sonatina. After the intermission she played two Burgmuller numbers with Mrs. Evans at the second piano, and finally the Concerto in C Major by Kasschau, also with her teacher. This last number was quite brilliantly performed. It was played with true musicianship and sparkling vitality. Carol Ann is to be congratulated. She plays with a certain vivid assurance that promises well for her future. Mrs. Evans is to be congratulated too. Her pupils play for sheer joy of playing. Many a future artist will owe a debt of gratitude to this splendid teacher.

Earls Visit Nielsens

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nielsen were hosts recently to Mr. and Mrs. Norman Earl of San Mateo and their son, Douglas, and during their visit entertained them at a barbecue.

As a surprise for their son, Alan Lane, petty officer, second class, U. S. Navy, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lane gave a barbecue at Schulte's the other day while he was on furlough here.

A veteran of Pearl Harbor, the Coral Sea and Midway, Officer Lane found Carmel Valley wonderfully quiet and peaceful and the barbecue, delicious.

Mrs. John W. Nutt came home last Friday from the Utah mining country to visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George S. Coblenz.

As a compliment to Pat Nutt and to Betty Jean Peck of Los Angeles Martha Millis entertained Tuesday evening at three tables of bridge.

No Vacation This Year for Your Appliances

"It's a Wartime Necessity"

Duration-ize
YOUR APPLIANCES WITH TIMELY REPAIR

Of course, You and Your Family are going to ease the tension of these war times with some kind of a vacation this year. It is going to be good for you and yours to relax and become a world of your own, apart from the world. But there will be no vacation for the appliances in your home.

Every one of your appliances will be used more because you will be at home more these days. You will be taking better care of your home and its furnishings. That puts wartime duty upon your washing machine, your range, your vacuum cleaner, your refrigerator, your iron or ironer.

So it is up to you to keep all of your home appliances running smoothly and efficiently. They are the mechanized equipment on the home front. Duration-ize with timely repair. You will be wise to do it while factory-made replacement parts are still available.

ing to give and to keep giving all they have, year after year, to its realization. Their zeal is unflagging, their courage dauntless, and their ability keen.

Everyone knows that Bach Festival week is the best week of the year in Carmel. The whole village is creative and alive, quickened by the enthusiasm of artists from far and near and stirred up to deeper appreciation of all the good things we have here. I heard a young man say recently, "Yes, I'm going to enlist soon, but not until after the Bach Festival."

This summer of 1942 gives the Festival peculiar significance. It will go on in spite of war, dimouts, rubber shortage and H. C. O. L. This determination to carry on the usual pattern of our life wherever possible is the best civilian defense we can have. It strengthens our own morale and serves as a candle in the dark for those less fortunate. The music of the masters refreshes and recreates all listeners.

Those citizens who cooperate by offering their guest rooms to the visiting artists not only give valuable assistance to the management but also gain richly in new friendships. They are:

"The Fleet's In" Two-Ocean Navy of Entertainment

Weigh anchor immediately, folks, and set a stright course for the Carmel Theatre, because that's where that dreadnaught of jollity, jokes and jive, "The Fleet's In," will tie up on Sunday and stay in port until Tuesday. Dorothy Lamour and William Holden will come ashore as the stars, accompanied by a cast of more than three hundred.

Norma Shearer and Melvyn Douglas play happy-go-lucky society adventurers, in "We Were Dancing". Miss Shearer falls in love with Douglas at the party at which she is to announce her engagement to Lee Bowman. This is followed by a series of hilarious situations. The companion film is "Hayfoot" with William Tracy and Joe Sawyer.

How a couple of rollicking, sea-soldiers help to break up an espionage ring forms the hilarious story of "Call Out the Marines," the new Victor McLaglen, Edmund Lowe feature. Binnie Barnes heads the supporting cast of this fast-moving comedy. Also showing is "Born to Sing" with Virginia Weidler and Leo Gorcey.

Fine List Of Films Lined Up For Playhouse

The Playhouse film program for the next five weeks, out today, comprises pictures of exceptional merit in their various fields.

The ensuing week, at the Playhouse starting with tonight's last showings of the remarkable "All that Money Can Buy", will include "Sundown", "Major Barbara", "How Green Was My Valley", and, finally that lustiest and most hilarious of all French films, "Carnival in Flanders". And, as if that were not enough, an extra film with the last-named picture will be the Monte Carlo Ballet in Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Caprice Espagnole".

Evening shows are continuous from six forty-five, the first complete show being concluded at least a half-hour before dark. Tires are guarded after nightfall. Additional parking can be found on Casanova Street below the Playhouse, with a paved and lighted path leading alongside the theatre to the entrance.

Mystery Comedy Hit Plays at Del Monte

Playing tonight and over this week end will be Carmel Myers in "Mr. and Mrs. North," the mystery comedy hit by Owen Daves, taken from the short stories appearing in the New Yorker. It ran for 12 months on Broadway and will be played for the first time on the west coast at the Del Monte Theatre.

On Tuesday, July 21, a new farce, "Keep Your Distance," will open with K. T. Stevens and Ian Keith in the lead. This is a pre-Broadway tryout.

K. T. Stevens, who in real life is the daughter of Sam Woods, director of the Hollywood production of "Goodbye Mr. Chips," decided to go ahead on her own, unknown,

K. T. STEVENS—Next Week at Del Monte Theatre

and try to break into the theatre the hard way. She went to New York with no money, and under an assumed name, K. T. Stevens, had the usual hard time haunting casting offices waiting for her break. She finally landed a part in the road company of "You Can't Take It With You." In this and in her next show, "My Sister Eileen," she was so successful that David Selznick signed her for a five-year contract that is starting with "The Keys of the Kingdom" in which she will play the lead and which will go into production in September. Playing the lead in "Keep Your Distance" will be the only outside engagement David Selznick will permit K. T. Stevens to keep.

Ease and assurance were lacking in some instances, but first-night nerves are no criterion for the potentialities of second and third night performances.

Barry Macollum as the Inspector gave this critic a few bad moments with his attempts to point up his characterization. His pause for emphasis (or for some reason of his own, no doubt) killed the tempo of the scenes and we had a little trouble hearing Howard Magwood and Miss Myers at times. Harry Altner's bit as Jenkins was quite good.

Fred Clarke, was by far the most poised actor on the stage and Louise Arthur, the most poised actress.

On the whole, the cast, including Max Cole, Phyllis Benbow, George Smith, Phil Robinson, Agnes Fraser and Allan Wyatt, pulled together nicely.

Basically it is a good play, excellent entertainment and well worth a trip to the Del Monte Theatre.

Bluejackets Plan Fair In August

The salvage sewing group of Bundles for Bluejackets is working top speed to have the many garments ready for display at Carmel's Salvage Fashion Fair which is to take place in August, that is, provided more volunteer women will sacrifice a little of their spare time and help sew on many of the dresses not yet finished.

Owing to the immediate need of sewers, Bundles for Bluejackets, the Carmel branch, one of over 500 branches in America which has been sewing on salvaged materials, was too late to send their display to the National Salvage Fair in New York which was held in the grand ball room of the Hotel Astor on June 16 and 17. It was no less than tragic to the Carmel Branch that it was not represented, to compete for the prizes awarded which were Government Bonds in different denominations.

Over half a million women in the United States plied their needles to accomplish the miracle of converting "rags to riches", for our sailors' dependents. Bundles for Bluejackets must have more women to sew! Please leave your name, Box number, or telephone, at Dolores and 7th, headquarters, and they will communicate with you.

"Tempo! Tempo! Tempo!" Virginia Short Tells of Usigli, and Excitement of First Rehearsal

It was a calm and quiet Gastone Usigli who faced the little group of instrumentalists on a Sunday afternoon in the first orchestra rehearsal of the eighth annual Bach Festival. He has learned, in the five years that he has been the conductor, that he must not expect too much at the first. These 13 early arrivals who make earnest attempts at the opening chorus of the "Magnificat", the cantata, "Praise Our God," and the C Major Overture, will be supplemented by more and better players. Each day the size of the ensemble grows, but the surprising thing is how the character and tone progress by leaps and bounds, until at the opening concert, the group has been welded together until it sounds as though they were a permanently organized orchestra. This is entirely due to the leadership and indefatigable energy of Mr. Usigli, who is solely responsible for the highly artistic musical quality of the Festival.

Rhythm, the root of all music, is stressed by Mr. Usigli and exemplified by him. Before a tricky attack he stands poised like a fencer. His gestures in conduction "follow through" like those of a golfer. He must be a marvelous dancer because he imparts such bodily feeling of motion. Most of the criticisms that he makes are of our playing of rhythm.

"Don't you basses and cellos realize that this is one of those walking rhythms of Bach?"

"You are young people", looking at the second violins. "This is an era of jazz so such a passage should not be difficult for you."

"In this chorus we sit in one rhythm for the entire composition". Then sarcastically, "You must belong to those super civilized citizens of today who feel that every beat must be in a different tempo."

We start to play and suddenly there is a pulling apart. Again it is lack of rhythm and he stops us and whispers, "Tempo! Tempo! Tempo!"

Now he throws a quick smile to the horn player who has negotiated a difficult passage well. Suddenly he looks as though he had suffered a bodily hurt. "Don't you feel a physical need for that a sharp? You must dislike the key of B minor!" We try again and again something displeases him. His face is agonized, "Gentlemen, Gentlemen, LOOK at me!"

He has the first and second violins rehearse a passage together. "Don't you hear when you are not together? You must establish an 'entente cordiale' between the parts. Balance is as necessary and vital in music as in life." Again we try. We are coming to the end of the composition. Mr. Usigli's face expresses the pent-up emotion. His lips are pressed tightly together but the pressure behind them makes a bulge above and below. They look as though they would burst apart. His eyes become more fiery. He is breathing and phrasing for all of us. We cannot but feel how he wants us to play. Ah! For once he is satisfied.

"Brave, brave, brave. Thank you very much. I see you tomorrow at two. But you will practice? I trust you."

The rehearsal is over.

SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE, Friday, July 19, 1935. By Alfred Frankenstein. "Under the painted Gothic proscenium arch of the Sunset School auditorium, Carmel's four-day Bach festival opened tonight with a program representative of the master's art in several of its categories. . . Council Protests Re-opening Snack

Wednesday, the City Council voted four to one protesting the reissuance of the Snack liquor license to Frank A. Phillips.

Favoring the re-issuance of the license, Councilman Fred McIndoe testified to the character and good intentions of Phillips and maintained that since the license already existed there was no harm in its transfer.

The other councilmen expressed themselves as strongly opposed to the re-opening of the Snack as they believe the majority of Carmel residents do not favor bars in town, and another bar would seriously aggravate the police problem.

Other business was appointment of Les Overhulse as acting Chief of Police during the 16 weeks leave of Chief Fraties who is attending the police school in Washington, D.C.

"I Can Only Give You a Few Points of Common Sense," Bufano Writes

By BENIAMINO BUFANO

To ask an artist to write about art is like asking a bird why it sings; why the sea breaks against the cliff. The bird sings because the song is there and the bird and the song come to unite with the rhythm. And so that's the bird and the song; the sea and the cliff; the artist and his creation. And now you see that

I cannot write to you about art for one cannot explain one medium in the things of another, for each is a different language, complete in itself. I can only give you a few points of common sense.

So go to see the statue of Bach in stainless steel and blue granite now in the park and you will get out of it by yourself very much more than I can tell you in words or anyone else can write about it. Just be yourself and you come closer to the truth and understanding of it than getting some second hand information about the statue.

In doing the statue we made many drawings of it and we spent many hours and weeks listening to the music of the composer and we received, by listening and studying the music, the very thoughts and characters of the man Bach. We chose stainless steel and granite because stainless steel is the most modern and granite, the most ancient material, and both are the most permanent which fit the music and the great composer.

So now you see how we proceed with our work. I say "we" because I with sixty kids out of the National Youth program communized and combined our efforts and our talents and Bach was the collected result.

We made many other things and among them was a statue of our

Carmel Has First View of Bufano's Bach; Music and Speeches Planned For Ceremonies in Plaza Saturday

The Carmel Art Institute on Saturday afternoon at 3 p.m. at Defendorf Plaza presents formally Bufano's monumental statue of Bach.

The ceremony will open with a Bach choral by the Stewart Trombone Quartet, and close with a

Bach choral sung by ten leading soloists to the accompaniment of trombones.

Beniamino Bufano will be the guest of honor and unveil his own statue. Mayor Keith Evans will preside. John Cunningham will act as chairman and among the speakers representing the public and the art world will be Alfred Frankenstein, the noted critic, and Senator Tickle.

This is one of those historical events which will be repeated over and over in print, especially in art periodicals, and always in connection with Carmel and the Bach Festival week. It is also an event which in these days of stress crystalizes in ones' mind what we are fighting for. It brings close to home one of the reasons why one goes on steel ships through oceans with enemy submarines to maintain our civilization and what it stands for — the freedom of the individual to explore in unknown fields. And that is what Bufano does. He is one of the great pioneers of our day, possibly the sculptor of greatest historical importance because he is the first man in sculpture to understand and work in the materials our Industrial Civilization has evolved.

The statue is a temporary loan brought here in honor of the Bach Festival.

League Invites Candidates to Meet in Debate

Republicans and Democratic candidates will thrash out important national issues at a unique public debate on the Peninsula early in August.

Will private automobiles be requisitioned?

Should we try another League of Nations after the war?

George Outland and A. J. Dingeman, candidates for Congress from our new Eleventh district, have been invited to give their opinions on such questions as these.

More fireworks may be expected if Republican Earl Warren and New Dealer Culbert Olson accept the invitation to meet on the same rostrum.

THE DOGS DO BARK

The Protective League For the Underdog unanimously elects for membership Foy E. Glover, Carmel's new dog catcher who is so kind-hearted that every time he is called to pick up a stray he takes it home and tries to find someone to adopt it.

All the dogs were very unhappy when they heard that the Village was going to have its very own dog catcher, but they feel better now that they find the dog catcher really is an understanding man who has their best interests at heart. In fact, most of the dogs are insisting that their masters and mistresses get them their new licenses so they can wear them at all times to keep from embarrassing the nice dog catcher who would have to pick them up if they didn't have licenses.

It happened on the Fourth of July. Elsbeth Frelson was driving home alone from the Mission Ranch Rodeo when suddenly she got that eerie feeling that someone was in the car with her. She glanced in the rear-view mirror and to her discomfort and horror saw a pair of glowing eyes staring back at her. By this time she had reached home, so she stopped the car, took a deep breath, quickly turned on the light, and turned around to see what terrifying thing owned the glowing eyes. There sitting on the back seat was a little black cocker, solemnly looking at her. He was a complete stranger who had apparently climbed in the car and gone to sleep.

Beth took him in and tried to find his owner. She called the ranch, the police, and the pound, and everyone else she could think of who might know something about the little fellow, but to no avail. Meanwhile, he had turned out to be such a little gentleman with such elegant manners that Beth decided she would keep him if she couldn't find his real owner. Because of the mysterious circumstances under which they had met, Beth called him "El HOM-BRE MISTERIOSO DEL NO-CHE DE CUATRO DE JULIO" and sincerely hopes that he will become a permanent member of the household at "La Casita Escondida".

STORMY Bennett is another sedate, conservative gentleman who has "Gone Carmel". When he first came here, STORMY was a quiet, dignified person who went walking only at the proper times. But now he has acquired the old Carmel canine custom of wandering off when and where he pleases in search of adventure and romance. Now at any hour of the day or night STORMY is apt to go off on one of these mysterious expeditions, returning several hours later with a pleased expression and a twinkle in his eye.

GINGER ALE Howell has his own Japanese problem to handle. It concerns TARO Vincent, a cat with a Japanese name, who belongs to GINGER ALE'S very good friend, Mrs. James Vincent. GINGER likes to call on Mrs. Vincent and pass the time of day now that his master, Captain K. Howell, is away at war, but he doesn't like TARO. It is bad enough that TARO is a cat, but that Japanese name makes it even worse.

However, GINGER ALE is a perfect gentleman, and while he is accepting Mrs. Vincent's hospitality he is very polite to TARO—but whenever he meets TARO outside, GINGER goes after that cat with all the enthusiasm of Midway Island Marine!

What a pretty sight it is to see the Peterson ladies out for an afternoon promenade. The four lovely blondes, Mrs. Martin Jonas Peterson, QUEENIE, GOODIE, and SUNBEAM, make quite a picture as they stroll up Ocean Avenue together.

That exotic Oriental beauty that TOMMY Warren is escorting about the Village these days is CHINKIE Kitson. CHINKIE'S mistress is Mrs. Edmund Kitson of Boston, and is here visiting her daughter, Marjorie Warren.

CHINKIE has visited in Carmel before, but she always enjoys seeing the sights in the company of such a debonair man-about-town as TOMMY and TOMMY always enjoys showing off the glamorous CHINKIE to his friends.

READ THE WANT ADS

To the Editor

July 19, 1942

Editor Pine Cone Cymbal
Carmel, California.

Dear Mrs. Cook:

One afternoon recently two young people appeared in distress on a small boat about a quarter mile out in the Bay near my home and on telephoning the Racquet Club and the Lodge I was surprised to learn that no facilities exist either here or in Carmel for rescue work in these waters. A similar incident occurred within the past two weeks when at mid-night a searchlight from about 300 yards off-shore swept both Carmel and Pebble Beach, and your Police Department informed me they were doing all they could to determine its identity but that they had no facilities whatsoever for going on the water.

It is obvious that a fast motor boat should be available both at night and day somewhere on Carmel Bay for rescue work and Captain Leonard Johnson of the Racquet Club, who has himself saved almost a dozen lives here, tells me that he has for years been trying to get such an installation. Suppose one of the many planes that circle over Carmel were to fall in the Bay? Unless Johnson rowed to them or the Coast Guard came from Monterey (which takes over two hours), the fliers would have small chance of surviving, and swimmers, as we all know too well, have less than that once they get in trouble beyond the breakers.

There is only one place to station a speed boat and that is at the Pebble Beach pier. Captain Johnson can reach Carmel Beach in a minimum of four minutes and a maximum of ten from there and it is certain if such a craft were kept there many lives would be saved.

As this is a community matter in which Carmel, Pebble Beach, the Del Monte Properties Company, the Army and the Navy and all residents along the Bay shore should be interested, it occurs to me that possibly you will consider the subject worthy of editorial comment and that some of the public spirited citizens of your community will believe it worth a letter to your columns.

While the financial outlay would appear to be the largest obstacle to the acquisition of suitable equipment, it would seem that if this were shared among the aforementioned interests, it should not prove burdensome.

Yours truly,
C. Whitman.

Carmel Strolls in the Twilight, Hears Heralding Trombones, and Attends First Two Great Festival Concerts

By H. C. C.

Monday evening marked the opening concert of the Eighth Annual Bach Festival when several hundred Carmel residents and guests found it good to turn from radios and newspapers, telling of a world in bitter strife, and stroll through the peaceful village streets to Sunset school.

It was a mellow, moonlit evening, and most of the audience lingered outside to hear Bach chorals, played by the Stewart quartet of Heralding Trombones, ring out sweet and clear from the outdoor balcony of the school. Friends exchanged greetings and among them were many who have missed few of the Festivals given annually since their inception in 1935.

Drifting indoors, the audience was shown to their seats by some of the town's prettiest girls, attractive in long, graceful frocks. Welcoming applause greeted the appearance of Gastone Usigli who has conducted the Festivals since 1938, and the rendition of the first number, the Opening Chorus of the Magnificat, "My Soul Doth Magnify the Lord", testified to the careful training given the singers by Mr. Usigli.

The second number, "Overture in C Major for Orchestra", a series of brief, graceful compositions for the dance—Courante, Gavottes, Menuets, Passepieds, etc., was well suited to the rather small orchestra, and very ably performed.

Following, came a Recitative and Air for Tenor from Cantata 78, "Thy Blood, Which Doth My Guilt Redeem", sung by the tenor soloist, Russell Horton, with Mr. Usigli at the piano and flute obbligato by Helen Mead Little. Mr. Horton's clear tenor voice and splendid enunciation were particularly effective in this music and received sincere applause.

The last number in the first half of the program was "Concerto in C Major" for two pianos and orchestra, with Lillian Steuber and Ralph Linsley at the pianos. Judging from its enthusiastic reception, this was perhaps the outstanding feature of the evening, and the work of the pianists brought out the marvels of construction and expression that are part of Bach's great contribution to the world of music. The orchestra accompaniment was well handled under Mr. Usigli's careful direction.

Following the intermission, which was featured by more Trombone Quartet music from the outdoor balcony, came the Cantata No. 11, "Praise Our God", for chorus, soloists and orchestra. In this, the audience was happy to welcome the return of Ruth Terry Koechig. In the pleading, "Ah, Tary Not, My Dearest Saviour", the rich warmth of her lovely contralto voice was effective. Peggy Turnley's clear, bell-like soprano seemed especially well suited to Bach in her singing of "Lord, My Vision Still Retaineth." In the tenor and bass Recitatives and Duet the voices of Mr. Horton and Mr. Merwyn Dant were very pleasing. The final number, "When Will the Night Be Over", by the chorus, soloists and instruments, was conducted, and performed skillfully and sympathetically.

Two centuries ago the great Johannes Sebastian Bach said that to him music was "nothing else than the glory of God and pleasant recreations", and the fact that

By MARION HOWES

Tuesday night's Bach Festival programme contained not a note of Bach but was given over to miscellaneous composers. Such an evening has become a tradition of the Festival. It serves as a relief to those who can take just so much Bach and helps to point and emphasize his greatness for those to whom he is undoubtedly "The Master." It also helps us all to a better understanding and appreciation of him by giving a further picture of the times and atmosphere in which he worked.

In this concert we were transported to a time when the existence of God and the dignity and duty of man were unquestioned facts. This faith, which is gloriously celebrated on occasion by Bach, shone for us through the strong cheerful singing of Handel, but for the most part it seems to have served as a platform upon which men could devote themselves to weaving and elaborating pleasant patterns of sound with a clear conscience and no thought to the trust-worthiness of the underpinnings.

The chorus was also on a vacation, but the orchestra had ample opportunity to show what a well-knit instrument it has become under Mr. Usigli's direction. In accompaniment with Rubin Decker's viola it gave great pleasure in the rendition of Handel's B minor Concerto which opened the programme. It then formed a background for Noel Sullivan's base in two arias by Lully and Gluck respectively. Mr. Sullivan is a Bach Festival tradition and received a well deserved ovation from the audience.

Lillian Steuber at the piano was the star of the evening. She has an easy and flexible technic and a sweetness of touch that was grateful to the ears of one who is allergic to "brilliant" pianists and trembles at the name of Scarlatti.

Phyllis Moffet, Claramae Turner, Harvey Smith Spencer and Merwyn Dent joined in singing three madrigals charmingly and then were strengthened by Ruth Terry Koechig's rich contralto and Julian Lieban's tenor in a moving Psalm by William Byrd. Credit for the orchestration for these and Mr. Sullivan's songs is given to Mr. Usigli and reminds us that he is a composer and suggests that it might be pleasant and fitting to hear some of his original music in Carmel.

Peggy Turnley, deftly accompanied by Ralph Linsley, pleased with a fresh and sweet soprano in songs by Handel, Paisello and Mozart, and seems to give promise of further development. The orchestra again earned our respect and blended with Lillian Steuber's piano in spinning some moments now, and for unknown centuries to come, men and women will derive highest enjoyment from performing and hearing his compositions; testifies to his utter sincerity and the universality of his musical language.

Don Blanding Life Going Into Book By Tennessean

Carmel's Don Blanding, poet and artist, is having his biography written.

In Knoxville, Tenn., Mabel Goode Frantz is well into the book "in which Dodd Mead Co. hopes to be interested."

Mrs. Frantz has written to The Pine Cone-Cymbal requesting (and receiving) permission to quote from the Don Blanding edition of The Pine Cone which appeared in 1937.

Mission Notes

The Carmel Mission Altar Society met at Crespi Hall Thursday afternoon, July 16th. The meeting opened with a prayer and the greeting of the president to the members.

After the secretary's reading of the last minutes, Mrs. Elsie Martinez, affiliate delegate of the Altar Society to the National Council of Catholic Women meeting at Monterey, gave her report. The National Council Deanery election was held, and Mrs. Jessie Kinlock of Monterey was elected the Deanery president.

Mrs. Martinez gave a resume of Mrs. Kinlock's interesting talk on the convention of the National Council of Catholic Women she attended recently at Fresno. The theme was "Patriotism", and the decorations were all in red, white and blue. The special speakers of the convention stressed "Christianity in action is Patriotism in action" in their talks on the Catholic War Service Programs. Affiliates were commended for their community activities and urged to continue to carry out their motto, "For God and Country."

The Home Extraordinary

Only "once in a blue moon" does the prospective buyer of a home have the privilege of being able to purchase a home like Happy Harbor that is outstanding in every way.

The most unusual situation; high above the road, looking out across the sand dunes to Lobos and the Santa Lucia range. Happy Harbor is charming, roomy, cheerful, and is most delightfully furnished. There's a quaintness about the house, an informality, altogether desirable. The furniture is good, and coloring exceptional. Three bedrooms, two baths, unusual number of large closets. The smartest kitchen in Carmel. Central heating plant. Electric fan over gas range. Handsome brick patio, with comfortable, good looking patio furniture.

Double garage, furnace room, storage space. Ask to be shown.

Soldiers' Art Should Not Rust

The soldier's art show attracted so much interest, and so well fulfilled its purpose, that a movement is now underway to establish a hobby room here so that soldiers can have a place to work at their hobbies and a place to exhibit the results of their efforts.

If such a room were established, Art and National Defense would furnish all the equipment from easels to lathes. Local art teachers have volunteered to serve as instructors. All that is lacking is a place.

There are vacant offices and shops in town that would serve the purpose handsomely if a fund could be raised to pay the rent.

It would not require a great sum of money. It would afford hours of relaxation and enjoyment to the men who would otherwise have no opportunity to keep their skills and talents alive.

Carol Steinbeck, Michaela Martinez and Tilly Polak who with Pat Cunningham and Elizabeth Cass, have worked so strenuously to make the soldier's show a success are willing to carry on with the hobby room project. People who would like to contribute to the fund, or who have ideas of how to raise money for it, should get in touch with them.

We feel that the response should, and will be, enthusiastic to this appeal.—Wilma Cook.

To the Editor

July 16, 1942

Editor, Pine Cone-Cymbal:

It is the general impression that Carmel is a dreamy, idyllic community with its head in the clouds, its feet in the sand and its behavior considerably behind the times.

I have never believed this, and recent action on the part of that alert citizen, William Burke, and a forward-looking city council, bears me out. Far from behind the times, at the present moment I should say that Carmel is the most advanced community in the state.

What other city has so completely recognized that the gasoline age is past, that the era of boots and saddles is dawning, and acted on that realization to the extent of starting proceedings for the installation of a drinking trough and two hitching posts in the heart of the shopping area?

This is the first step ahead. Since pavements hurt horses feet and serve no useful purpose, as there will soon be no more tires to protect, the next move, of course, is to tear up the pavements on Ocean and Dolores Streets. I do not doubt that the city council will take appropriate action to accomplish this project as soon as it is brought to its notice.

I realize it is your policy not to publish unsigned letters, but in view of my sound reason for asking it, I trust you will make an exception in my case. Should I sign this communication, I would be pestered by autograph collectors who would like nothing better than to be able to announce on returning to their home towns,

French Film at Playhouse

According to Edward and Gabrielle Kuster, Carmel Playhouse managers, it is primarily for the showing of pictures like "Carnival in Flanders," starting a three-day run today, that the Playhouse continues to function. Four-starred by Liberty Magazine and the New York Daily News, and generally rated as the best among all the fine comedies France has sent us, it well deserves this return engagement. Its situations and its intonations of voice speak a universal language that makes a knowledge of French unnecessary to the American audience. However, there are superimposed English dialogue titles, so nobody need miss a trick. Matinee Sunday at three.

The other two pictures of the coming week, "Moon Over Her Shoulder" and "Confirm or Deny," have been selected from the best of this year's Hollywood output. Dates of showing are set out in the regular Playhouse notice in this issue.

Burglar Alarm Alarms Everybody

Two visitors from San Francisco, strolling about enjoying the charm of Carmel at 3 o'clock Monday, sat down on the running board of a car for a cigarette and a chat.

The car was equipped with a beep-beep horn that goes off as soon as the car is off center as a warning against tire thieves. It also goes off when people sit on the running board.

Les Overhulse, police officer, attracted by the horn, apprehended the two as they tried to slink away into the night. Satisfied that their intentions were innocent and honest, Overhulse let them go and returned to the scene of the "crime" and found the owner of the car, bare-shanked and in an old-fashioned flannel night shirt, a gun in one hand, a flashlight in the other, making a flank approach on the beeping car with the intention of capturing the "thief."

A neighbor chose this moment to thrust his head out of the window and yell at the shadowy form of the police officer, and the night-shirted owner of the car, City Councilman and Commissioner of Police, Bernard Rowntree:

"If you damn fools don't stop tooting that horn I'll call the police."

Council Protests

Fred Godwin who attributed its success largely to the work of George Mosolf and Leila Gulmurt. The Council expressed its appreciation for the excellent work of Godwin in organizing the project.

"Look, I have the autograph of the only horse I know of that can write. I got it in Carmel."

Andy Hardy Film Heads Week of Entertainment

Mickey Rooney, as Andy Hardy, has new girl trouble in "The Courtship of Andy Hardy", in the person of attractive Donna Reed. Donna plays Melodie Nesbie, a young girl made unhappy by her quarreling parents. When Andy tries to bring a little sunshine into her life by taking her to a school dance, she falls head-over-heels in love with him, and it takes all of Andy's ingenuity to get out of her clutches. Sister Marian (Cecil Parker) returns to the family in the new picture, and has a dramatic adventure of her own. Also on the bill is the "March of Time" No. 12.

"The Male Animal", a comedy which had a very successful run on the Broadway stage last season, has been transferred to the screen by Warner Bros. In the starring roles are Henry Fonda, Olivia de Havilland and Joan Leslie. Also playing is "Cadets on Parade", with Freddie Bartholomew and Jimmie Lydon.

Rex Beach's "The Spoilers" has everything that any type of audience demands in a motion picture: Action, adventure, thrills, romance, set against a background of pictorial magnificence. "The Spoilers", the never-to-be-forgotten novel brought to the screen in streamlined 1942 fashion. In the cast of this great show is Marlene Dietrich, as fascinating and fetching as she was in "Destiny." Randolph Scott and John Wayne, are the bold, brawny men, who fight for her love. The companion film is "Joe Smith, American." Robert Young, Marsha Hunt and Daryl Hickman portray a typical American family of today in "Joe Smith, American." Inspired by the men behind America's mighty defense program, the new M-G-M picture strikes a note of timely significance. As an average workman, Young is seized by enemy agents who torture him in an effort to get information on a secret device for army bombers.

Lively Season at Del Monte Closes With "Keep Distance"

By K. MARTIN

To the tune of hearty soldier and civilian laughter, "Keep Your Distance," swept along on its merry way at Del Monte Theatre.

Racy dialogue plus an intriguing plot; Ian Keith, K. T. Stevens and a good supporting cast made up a fine evening for us.

We're indeed sorry that this play marks the end of a too-short series, for George Banyai's productions have all been a boon to playgoers, providing much needed laughter and relaxation in a time of stress.

Joe Schoeninger Home

Here for a few days with his family on the Point, Joe Schoeninger enjoyed a brief furlough.

Ian Keith Lead in Del Monte Drama

Ian Keith, distinguished Shakespearean student and actor, plays the lead in "Keep Your Distance", opposite K. T. Stevens, in the pre-Broadway tryout of a new comedy which opened last Tuesday evening, at the Del Monte theatre and will run through Sunday, July 26th, inclusive.

Keith has played hundreds of parts on the stage. Among the memorable ones may be mentioned Luigi of "Laugh, Clown Laugh", which he created for David Belasco, the Earl of Bothwell in "Mary of Scotland", Mit Shanks in "The Copperhead", the tragic Larry Renault of "Dinner at Eight", and Baron von Gaigern in "Grand Hotel." His success with farce as Rudolf in "Reunion in Vienna" and the mad Jaffe in "Twentieth Century" is perhaps overshadowed by his particular specialty, namely the great villains of Shakespeare. The most famous of these is probably Bolingbroke in "Richard the Second", although his favorite part is Iago, and his best performance is Macbeth.

Included in the cast of "Keep Your Distance" are K. T. Stevens, who will star opposite Ian Keith, who has played "Eileen" in the Chicago Company of Sister Eileen, and who is under contract to David Selznick, and will play in "The Keys to the Kingdom" which is being made in September.

Phyllis Benbow, Robert Harris who will again act as well as direct and members of the Del Monte Stock Company.

Totheroh Saw Convicts Build Big Sur Highway

By ELIZABETH PAINE

At his home under the oaks on North Carmelo Street, Dan Totheroh, playwright, novelist, screen writer, former actor and soldier, told me last week how he got the idea for his novel "Deep Valley," just out, and claiming headlines in the New York Times Book Review section for July 12. Novel of Escape.

Totheroh explained that he has had the idea for "Deep Valley" a long time, since he watched the building of the San Simeon highway and talked to the convict road gang which was opening up the strange, remote Big Sur country with its secret population. His book is concerned with escape, about "how people hide behind things." The theme of mental escape — a psychosis especially prevalent now, Totheroh points out — is paralleled in the physical escape of the convict character during a landslide on the road, an event Totheroh borrowed from life.

The title, "Deep Valley," like the escape theme, has a double significance since it embraces both a valley in the Santa Lucia mountains and also the deep valley which lies within people.

Rave Notice in Times

"'Deep Valley' is a fine book which tells a mature and profound story with the sensitive restraint and perception of a poet," writes Times Reviewer Rose Feld.

"For Totheroh, playwright and novelist, is more than an able craftsman who is expert in building up the scaffolding of excellent drama. In creating the story of two hunted creatures seeking fulfillment and freedom, he shows himself to be a superb stylist and a fine poet. In the choice of his characters, in his subtle exploration of the impulse and actions of simple people, he recalls the work of Steinbeck, but he takes nothing from him. Totheroh stands squarely on his own feet, deriving his strength from an inner sympathy for humankind and a gift for restrained and rhythmic expression."

Totheroh First Writer Of Oakies

Totheroh's appeal through this book is to much the same audience which acclaimed his first novel, "Wild Orchard," in 1927. This was the initial story of California's migratory fruit pickers. Instead of being called Oakies, they were known as Ford gypsies. And they were not resented by Californians but by the Mexican laborers in the orchards who had to compete with them.

At the same time, Totheroh has been touching an enormous movie audience with his script of "All

That Money Can Buy" (which was shown last week-end at the Playhouse), a film, written from the celebrated story, "The Devil and Daniel Webster," a movie which has been the object of general praise from the critics.

Literary Persephone

Totheroh lives a kind of winter and spring life since he spends part of every year writing scripts in Hollywood. He emerges regularly in Carmel to do his novels, plays and children's books. His vogue in Hollywood began back in 1928.

Totheroh's play, "Moor Born," was produced here at the First Theatre. He is the author of five other plays, "Wild Birds," "Distant Drums" among them. He has also written "lots of children's books and plays, and has one cooking now."

Veteran Private of Last War

While all this writing may sound like a great deal, it has by no means taken up Totheroh's time.

He fought practically all the way through the last war as a private—he was a corporal for a few months, took part in the three big battles, beginning with the Argonne, and served with the Army of Occupation so that he did not get home to California until almost the end of 1919. He first came to Carmel soon after.

Totheroh says he "sheds" war. His only injury was a "little gas, nothing to speak of."

He graduated from the University of California and became first of all a vaudeville actor. He began writing plays for himself, one acts, for his vaudeville appearances at the Alcazar in San Francisco.

Before he followed his later plays to New York, he helped to open Carmel's famous Golden Bough Theater with his play, "The Princess Salome," the Golden Bough's second offering.

While the children's book cooks, Totheroh will be off again to Hollywood in a few weeks to prepare new dishes for his omnivorous movie audience.

Mrs. Arthur Smiley, wife of Major Smiley, has arrived from Richmond, Va., for an extended visit with Mrs. Louise Grigsby and Mrs. Kathryn Lansdowne at Robles del Rio.

Vital New Show Opens at Gallery

By PAT CUNNINGHAM

The Carmel Art Association has scored again by presenting another stimulating show which opened to the public at the Art Gallery last week.

It seems to this observer that there is more than usual compositional drama on display. John O'Shea's explosive mountain surges upward in an orchestration of vertical movements emphasized by the horizontals of the fields and sky. The cool color mood is peculiarly effective and appropriate to the subject, as also happens in his seascape — stark and misty cold and yet suggestive of the surging power latent in the quiescent ocean.

The paintings of Martin Baer are, of course, notable. This distinguished painter shows the character of a true individualist influenced by nothing but his own desire to paint the world as he feels it. His tulips writhe with an almost human spirit, and his children have the loveliness and detachment of flowers.

Natalie Newking's intellectual patterns are most satisfying where she has restrained herself to the use of fewer geometrical shapes, as in her "chess players" where the play between straight and curved contours is simplified to a sort of pictorial music. This is further enhanced chromatically by the arrangement of warm and cold color areas.

Burton Boundy presents a very powerful and beautiful arrangement of lighthouse, sea and sky. This painter's effectiveness lies in a kind of subtle power which might not strike the observer at first glance. But after seeing his painting over a period of time, one is suddenly struck by a revelation of his quality.

Frank Myer's still life is so well integrated in composition, form and color that it has a sort of plastic glow. His Cowboy has the same painter-like pulsation in his handling of pigments in the color-form integration and, at the same time, this painting is an appealing character study.

There are many excellent incidents in this series of painting as is also true in the water color gallery display. I wish to make special mention of Maxine Albro's small painting of a girl that is so charming it alone is worth a trip to the gallery.

Making quite a sensation are the drawings of John O'Shea. They seem a new point of departure for this artist and are tremendously popular.

This exhibit is scheduled to be on display for about two months so that visitors will have full opportunity to enjoy a splendid showing.

FEATURES

OF MEN AND BEASTS

By PHIL NESBITT

There is a curious and awful truth bound up in the following "rounds." One of them was the basis for a story by Mark Twain. In this story there was a character who had memorized the particular "round" involved, to the extent of nearly becoming insane. He was able ultimately to foist the overly memorized round off onto another recumbent mentality, and thus, was relieved of the noxious fixation.

Words are potent things, as the present use of them in history's making reveals. The following "rounds" are potent indeed, and unless the reader has fine discipline of mind, they will lodge like burrs. They are incessant pathways to a monomania of some sort. Here they are (with all their deadly insistence).

Mark Twain's — "Punch brothers, punch; punch with care; punch in the presence of the passenger."

"I slit the sheet, the sheet slit me, slitten was the sheet, that was slitten by me."

"The boy guessed right the very first time, he knew by its size 'twas not a pussy cat".

A warning may be delivered now. Forget them, having read them, as speedily as is humanly possible. Otherwise, during some nocturnal watch, they will edge into the foremost crannies of the brain and will perhaps go ringing round that brain like the little mice on the little dizzy treadmills in the cage.

In Carmel there lives a charming woman. Her claim to fame lies in her good and generous nature. One would not know this until a meeting with her had occurred, for otherwise she is not unlike those numerous ladies of Carmel who, by virtue of their spellbinding talents, hold impregnable the foreground of local renown.

The lady in question has no insidious obloquy, no hypocrisy. Here is the tale. An Oregon mother junco, with her brood of young ones, had built a nest close to the lintel of the lady's house. Then, one of these unpredictable and enormous little tragedies of nature happened. The mother bird was killed. The brood being so shattered, attempted to fend for itself. All the small birds followed the path of the mother but one. The lady found this featherless form and, with the aid of an eyedropper, sustained its feebly flickering life flow. Then, a little later, the lady had reason to go east. East went the little bird, now possessed of a fine set of pin feathers. Also on the journey went the dog of quaint name. The three intrepid Peregrins survived, returning by motor car again to Carmel. All flourishing, all well. The point is, that during the long trip, the lady, in her great compassion, had fed the little bird at fifteen minute intervals! I understand that it now has a longer period between eyedropper mouthfuls. Compassion, in these days of great organized machinery for annihilation, is a thing to be worked at. It is work to be simple and to be good.

*In this immortal sacrament of sound
The plea is heard; Kyrie Eleison . . .
A cry of desolation so profound
That from its dark despair all hope is gone.

*Then with what sanctity of heart and breath
The resonance of joy is borne above,
Through the great song of victory over death
Into the Sanctus Dominus of love —
Until at last from the triumphant whole
Rings out the vast hosannah of the soul!*

CHORAL PRELUDE

*The joy of Bach, the full, clear-rivered song,
Comes from a source so deep, so rock-profound,
That to the listening spirit borne along
It issues freshly from primordial ground.
Here is no reckless gaiety whose fate
In rash abandon rushes to a fall,
But utter happiness that cannot wait,
To give its very essence, giving all.*

*This fountain-gladness, crystal from the source,
This choral-prelude of eternal joy,
Cannot be stricken mute by any force
The world's dark contradiction can employ.
Against the crushing rock a voice will sing—
Try as you may, you cannot kill a spring!*

FUGUE

*The day began upon a single theme
Stated by one lone linnet in the wood;
A little sleepy, true, just out of dream,
But who could give it utterance as he could?
In growing dawn, from voice to voice it passed;
The leafy morning multiplied the sound;
The clouds took up the rhythmic mode, and cast
A maze of variations on the ground.
The mountains answered with a chord sustained
Against the mighty bass-tones of the sea.
A day of Bach — of Paradise regained —
The earth uplifted into symphony!
And what could I contribute to the whole
But to be audience with all my soul!*

REVIEWS

cans to lard tubs. But plants were the object of our interest.

The real advantage I've discovered in tub-grown plants is their mobility. Unlike plants established in the ground, these tubbed or boxed plants can be shifted about to fill gaps in the landscape, and at blooming time they can be moved to a place of prominence. They can likewise be moved to a place of obscurity during that after-pruning stage and while they are building up energy for the next crop of flowers.

For quick screening of certain spots a number of tall-growing plants in movable containers is helpful. My potting used to be piled down at the low end of the lot until I screened off a circle under a nearby oak tree. Now it means but a few steps to shift that pot-bound geranium into a five-gallon paint can.

The matter of containers could be a stickler, but so far, it has not kept me from acquiring a stock of various shapes, sizes and colors. I've seen two-bit plants in twelve-dollar containers and vice versa and still maintain that the plant is the main objective. It may be a case of not being able to see the forest because of the trees by planting a smiling Fuchsia in a pickled-herring tub, but it's the Fuchsia I aim to enjoy. My worry at the moment is that there may be no empty catsup cans available at the fishcanneries this year for my next year's supply of five-gallon cans.

If the Pine Cone enjoys a wide circulation in Washington, D.C., I hope someone will bring this piece to the attention of Leon Henderson; a heavy screen of mobile shrubbery outside the Senate door would provide him an excellent bean-shooting ambush against tormenting Senators. Either that or have his cigars made just a little larger.

The same sort of a screen around the Nazi sabotage trial rooms might help to discourage reporters in their quest for a scoop.

PINE CONE CYCLE TOUR, NO. 2

You start at the corner of Ocean and Lincoln, preferably at sunset, head down Lincoln, and after the first few winds, you don't have to turn a peddle down the entire gentle incline of Lincoln to Santa Lucia. You simply roll along, applying the brake at the corners that are blind. And it seems to me that every corner in Carmel is blind. But we'll have to make the best of it, and be careful, because there isn't anything we can do to make the corners less blind, unless we take out the trees and shrubs, and we'd rather be run over by cars occasionally than disturb our trees and shrubs.

When you get to Santa Lucia, you have a breath-taking view of the meadows of the Mission tract, hazy and dream-like in the late afternoon light, the blue bay beyond, the pink Mission on the left and the Point with its confusion of flower gardens on the right.

You coast onto Santa Lucia, carefully, for this is one of the particularly bad Santa Lucia corners that Street Commissioner McCreery has ear-marked for elimination. You peddle hard to get over the hump and turn left to make the circle around the nose of the Point.

From now on it's alternately peddle and coast along Scenic Drive where it isn't the bicycling that wears you out, but the frantic effort to see the ocean on the left, the gardens on the right, and the traffic in front and rear, with the same pair of eyes.

You arrive at the foot of Ocean avenue, dismount and sit down on the curb to await the friend who promised to meet you and bring you and the bike up the Ocean Avenue hill in the rumble seat.

for its not being beautiful.

"We are living in an apartment at the corner of the main street and the main highway. On one side is an all-night eating place specializing (my nostrils tell me) in hamburgers, and on the other side is a drive-in soda fountain. On a clear day you can see the windows."

BUNDLES FOR BRITAIN

Mrs. Ralph Skene, Chairman of Bundles for Britain, wishes to announce that, contrary to the general impression that the organization's shop on Dolores Street will close, due to the continual loss of vessels making it necessary to give all shipping space to the shipment of munitions, the Bundles for Britain will definitely continue to operate as formerly.

There will be a change in the quantity of clothes distributed. However, small shipments will be made from time to time when space is available. Clothes will also be distributed to the British sailors who have been shipwrecked and landed on our shores. They need underclothing, shirts, shoes and outer clothing. All of which makes it obvious that the Bundles for Britain still functions.

will not be held until Sunday afternoon, August 2, at 4 p. m.

CHURCH OF THE WAYFARER

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"Truth" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon Sunday, July 26, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. The Golden Text will be: "The word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discernor of the thoughts and intents of the heart," (Hebrews 4:12).

Other Bible citations will include: "He sent his word, and healed them, and delivered them from their destructions. Oh, that men would praise the Lord for his goodness, and for his wonderful works to the children of men!" (Ps. 107: 20, 21).

The Lesson-Sermon will also include the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Truth is God's remedy for error of every kind, and Truth destroys only what it untrue. Hence, that fact that, to-day, as yesterday, Christ casts out evils and heals the sick . . . Christian Science brings to the body the sunlight of Truth, which invigorates and purifies," ((pp. 142, 162)

Carmel Boys Join Philippine Unit

The Philippine Battalion at San Luis Obispo is the richer by seven Carmel boys who were inducted into the army last week.

All, with the exception of one, were employees of the local hotels and inns, and their absence will be sorely felt by their employers and the hotel patrons. Dan G. Concepcion and Florenze R. Luna of La Playa; Angel Liwanag, Manuel Pascua, Highlands Inn; Antero Cabebe, Normandy Inn; Felix Concepcion, Peter Pan; and Benjamin Cacatian, Peninsula Community Hospital, are the inductees.

Other Carmel Filipino boys who in the past two months have joined the Philippine Battalion, which is fast becoming three battalions, since it now numbers about 3000, are:

Cominador Fernandez, Federico Domingo, Raymond Menes, Francisco Clarin, Rufino Cabebe, Jose Renado, Virgilio Agloro and Engracio de la Pena.

Several months ago these same boys staged a benefit dance at the Carmel Girl Scout House that netted the Red Cross over $500. Some of them have brothers and cousins who lost their lives fighting beside the American troops in the defense of the Philippines.

Elizabeth White Gives Coming Out Party for Her House

Mothers give coming out parties for their lovely daughters, artists and writers teas to launch their new pictures and books. Elizabeth McClung White finished her house Friday. As it was as much a cause of personal pride as the lovely daughter mentioned above, as much a result of creative effort as a picture or a book, Miss White gave it a coming out party.

Present for cocktails and to meet Happy Harbor, the last of the four Beauty Houses Miss White has built on the dunes, were Miss White's friends and associates in the Real Estate Business: Mrs. Elizabeth Titus from the White Real Estate office; Mrs. Gladys Johnston and Mr. Donald Clappett of the Johnston office; Mrs. Wieman and Mr. Hap Hasty of Carmel Realty; Mr. Ed Ewig, Mrs. Chester, Mr. Morehouse of Ewig and Morehouse; Mr. Michel Abbott; Mrs. Goering and Mr. Segal of the Carmel Investment Co.; Mr. Kenneth Wood of Bostic and Wood; Mrs. Paul Winslow of the Del Monte office; and Mr. and Mrs. Shand of the Shand office.

Mrs. Clare Stearns and her house guest, Mrs. Pearl Blackmoor of Tulsa, Oklahoma, helped Miss White serve.

Kyrie Eleison

over three hours of performance, and it is the dream of the Carmel Festival ultimately to give it in its entirety, with the first half in the afternoon and the concluding portion in the evening, according to tradition.

Peggy Turnley, soprano; Ruth Terry Koechig, contralto; Russell Horton, tenor; and Merwyn Dant, bass, will be the soloists with the Festival Chorus of sixty and the orchestra of forty, conducted by Gastone Usigli. The setting within the historic walls of the Mission San Carlos Borromeo is impressively and movingly beautiful. The lighted candles, the mood of exaltation, expressed in "a solemn stillness" which is broken by the powerful tones of the first "Kyrie" leave an unforgettable memory. Nineteen forty-two will mark the sixth Festival which has culminated with the B minor Mass in the Carmel Mission. Of the 1939 performance Alfred Frankenstein wrote in the San Francisco Chronicle, "Within drastically limited space one cannot say half as much as one would like concerning the fifth annual Bach festival at Carmel, which came to its conclusion last Sunday with as thrilling and lifting and moving a performance of selections from the B minor Mass as you are ever likely to hear... the presentation was supremely fine."

Mr. Frankenstein's comment was made three years ago. Since that time the chorus has gained immeasurably, and traveled a considerable distance toward its ultimate goal of an excellence worthy of the great music. Under the inspired and commanding baton of Gastone Usigli, Sunday's performance may confidently be expected to reach heights previously unattained.

Bufano Writes

President which as yet has not been shown to the public. Yes, we made all our tools, hammers, and mallets and each of the youths are now expert welders and metal workers and received a rounded knowledge of the chemistry and nature of the different metals and materials used. For instance, we had amongst us four youths who did research work and who kept us supplied with the latest research work and writings on the different materials.

The new work process, in using the materials direct, is of our own creation and we claim to be the only living that shape and work stainless steel and the combined materials that we use.

At this time fifty-three of these youths hold key positions in our aircraft industries and shipyards as special designers and welders, tool makers and molders—each with a rounded knowledge of design and structural forms. This is modern sculpture and a modern sculptor's studio is abreast with the time and the new materials of our times. Just go to see the statue of Bach. But first strip yourselves of all your complexes and fixations. Be simple and use your head and common sense as it was intended in straight thinking. And let us remember that we are living in the twentieth century and are responsible for the deeds and misdeeds of the past and present human race.

Genuine Art in Soldiers' Show

which is probably one of the most informative and stimulating exhibits, with the best potential box office, to be held in Carmel.

In comparison, Life Magazine's reprint of outstanding paintings by soldiers seems quite dull. Carmel's exhibition, which is staged pleasantly out of doors, is enlivened with enormous variety—of medium, skill and conception. It is a vital record on a subject which has been arousing interest among us for the last ten months—what are soldiers thinking and feeling.

A big lithograph by James Dale Trammel of Fort Ord, called World War II, quietly expresses the deep significance of the present war—the new total-war aspect—through the representation of a civilian evacuation.

The drama of soldiers in action is caught in such things as the flashing watercolor by Norman Shadley, Trammel's tempera of marching men; The Charge, a pen and ink of cavalry by William Yeisley. Rhythmic and decorative oils and sketches abound of the cavalry and of horses alone.

In contrast are blunt posters which show how soldiers feel about the need to Serve in Silence.

The Army is immobilized in a whole row of conventional oil portraits by Edward Slisz.

Yeisley has combined Army plus Fort Ord and Carmel itself in his Dying Cavalryman by carving the dramatic figures in Carmel stone.

Carlyle Lewis' photographs of shadows on the sand are extraordinarily fine and have mostly been sold.

Again, in an indoor room, are to be found all kinds of handicrafts, infinitely delicate airplanes made from silk paper and match wood, copper work, cartoon sketches of Hitler, macaroni necklaces.

At the final showing Sunday afternoon, a negro a capella choir from the Del Monte USO will sing in the Golden Bough Court.

The getters-up and work-doers of this splendid exhibit are Carol Steinbeck, Tilly Polak, Elizabeth Cass, Patricia Cunningham and Michaela Martinez.

Prizes—artist kits donated by Art and National Defense Inc.—have been awarded six of the artists, Yeisley, Trammel and Howard Neslen, of Fort Ord; Gordon Mollor and Edward Reep, Presidio of Monterey; and Norman Shadley, Camp Roberts; honorable mention for Sgt. Carlyle Lewis, by a jury consisting of Beniamino Bufano, Elizabeth Cass, Margaret Valiant, Marjory Warren and Michaela Martinez.

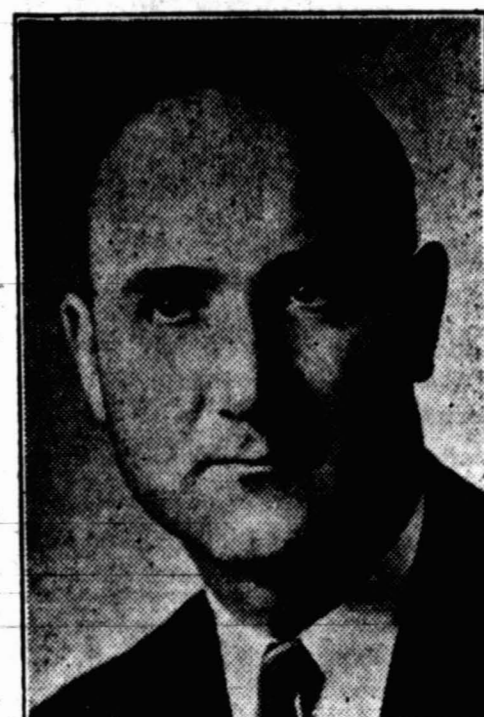

Martha Welty Marries

The Gold Coast Troupers lost one of their popular actresses Sunday when Lillian Martha Welty became the bride of Jess Anthony Ojeda in a ceremony at St. John's Chapel, Del Monte.

Fine Marine is Main Attraction at Heath Exhibit

The exhibition of paintings by Edda Maxwell Heath is a delightful change from the modernism and cubistic tendencies of so many of the present day artists. Now on display at the SKETCH BOX Gallery on Lincoln Street, these pictures will be hung until the 31st of the month. For those who like quiet dignity in portrait and landscape, and a certain windswept quality in marine oils, her work will please and interest... Especially notable is the large marine on the north wall which alone is worth a visit to the Gallery.

WHO KNOWS HIM?

Hardly one in a hundred Carmelites. Yet he may help decide your fate in the war today and the peace to come.

George Outland, we Democrats and Republicans salute you! We need men of your vision in Congress. We know you are wise, fearless and farseeing. We know you are trained to serve the public and not any special interest.

Carmelites, scores of men in Congress voted against nearly every one of the 10 vital war issues. They let our country down. But Outland won't let America down. Study his record and you instinctively know he can't vote selfishly or ignorantly.

Vote for George Outland at the Aug. 25 Primaries, and if you love your country, VOTE!
